At the inquest begun Saturday on the bodies of the victims of Friday's tragedy, Joseph Mitchell, a switchmen and resident of East St.

"I heard the deputies give the order to disperse," said the witness, "and just afterwards the shooting began. The man who did the shooting was a very tall man. I saw no rocks thrown nor heard any shots previous to that fired by the tall deputy. After the first I ran, and know very little of what occurred subsequently."

THOMAS COOKSON,

Cases Against Judge Advocate McGarry and Others Go Over Until Thursday.

Four of the cases against strikers were set for hearing in the Court of Criminal Correction this morning. The case against John Conroy, charged with obstructing a railroad trrok, was continued until Thursday morning. Wm. Cline, charged with the same offense, pleaded guilty, by consent, to a misdemeanor, trespassing, ing and was, on recommendation of the attorneys representing the railroad, fined $25, and the execution was stayed during good behavior. After the testimony of the State had been heard in the case of Theodore Randolph, charged with assaulting to kill Engineer James Root, a noile prosequi was entered in the case, the evidence being insufficient to sustain the charge. A warrant for assault and battery was taken out, however, Mrs. Annie Root, wife of the engineer, swearing to the information. In the warrant John McCarty, alias Fitch, alias Dack, and a man whose name is unknown, but who is given in the warrant as John Jones, are made co-defendants of Randolph.

nnknown, but who is given in the warrant as John Jones, are made co-defendants of Randolph.

The case around which all the interest centered however was that against Judge Advocate J. J. McGarry, Charles Burdett and L. W. Chase, charged with obstructing a railroad track. It was made a test case to decide whether the statute under which these cases are brought covers the alleged offense. ExJudge Laughlin represented the State in the case, and ex-Gov. C. P. Johnson, S. S. Bass and Thos. Hogan appeared for the defendants. Frank A. Drayer, an engineer of the Missouri Pacific Road, was placed on the stand by the State as a witness. Before he commenced his testimony, Mr. Johnson arose and moved to dismiss the case on the ground that the action charged in the complaint did not come under the statute making it a felony to tear up or remove the works of a railroad. The prisoners had not torn up any of the railroad groperty, but were merely accused of pulling a coupling-pin, which is not part of the road but part of the furnishings of a road.

Said the court was not to construe the law strictly, but was merely examining into probable cause, this being only a preliminary hearing.

Gov. Johnson thought it absurd to suppose tearing up of rails, bridges, etc. In the act of pulling a pin out of a stationary car no lives were endangered.

Mr. Drayer, engineer of the Washington accommodation, was then allowed to tostify to show of what the alleged offense of the defendants consisted. McGarry had requested him to leave his engine and the fireman and foreman left. He then turned the engine into the shops. He heard men in the crowd about the train say, "Pull the pin," and beard others say: "It has been pulled." He saw no pin pulled and did not know who made the remarks.

As Judge Noonan was about to give his decision Mr. Laughlin said the State were in no hurry for the decision. If the company had no protection under the law they did not care to learn it immediately, and thought it better it should not be known for awhile.

Gov. Johnson favored an immediate decision. It was important to the defendants.

Judge Noonan said he would continue the case until Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, and withhold his decision until that time. It is a very general opinion that it will be averse to the railroad companies, but ere Thursday they will probably endeavor to secure indictments before the Grand-jury and then noise prosequies the cases in Judge Noonan's court, thus avoiding a defeat.

MADE HIM DO IT.

Judge Advocate McGarry and Engine Drayer Figure in an Exciting Scene.

Engineer Frank A. Drayer, who was a witness to-day in the Court of Oriminal Correction in the cases against Judge Advocate McGarry rant for conspiracy against Fred Howard, John Hamilton, Peter Belleville and John Jamsson, four strikers. The warrant charges them with conspiring to maliciously trespass on the property of the Missouri Pacific Railroad and maliciously destroy two gates and a lot of hose, the personal property of the corporation. When Judge Advocate McGarry learned of the fact this afternoon, he accosted Drayer and asked him why he had taken such action.

"They made me do it." was the reply.
"I am surprised at you doing anything like "They made me do it." was the reply.
"I am surprised at you doing anything like that. If you were a man they couldn't make you do it." said McGarry indignantly.
"Well, how could I help it? I had to do it—they made me."
That's nonsense. If you were a man they couldn't make you. You are allowing yourself to be used as a tool by the railroad company, and that man there," and McGarry pointed to Detective Furlong, who was standing near by. The little scene created considerable excitement, but nothing further came of it, Drayer attempting no further reply.

General Executive Board and the Executive Committee of Dissession to-day at Hurst's Hotel, but took no official action other than to receive reports from different points on the Gould system and to transact routine business.

In a conversation with a Posr-Disparter reporter General Committeeman John W. Hays stated that the statements attributed to Jay Gould in an interview in a morning paper, in which Mr. Gould says that Mr. Powderly at one of the New York conferences referred to the members of of District 101 as "outlaws" and said that they had disobeyed the laws of the order, was false in every particular and wholly without foundation. He characterized it as "one of Jay Gould's lies for the purpose of misrepresenting the Knights of Labor and destroying public faith in the order."

"What Mr. Powderly did say," said Mr. Hays, "was that the strike was unwise and had been ill-advised, because the local committees had taken action upon important matters concerning a very large extent of territory without first consulting the general officers of the order. Other than that he made no remarks of the character attributed to him by Mr. Gould."

"Were you present at the interview referred to between Mr. Rounday and Mr. Rounday an marks of the character attributed to him by Mr. Gould."

"Were you present at the interview referred to, between Mr. Powderly and Mr. Gould?
"Yee, I was, and I have a very distinct recollection of what occurred."
"You are quite certain that Mr. Powderly did not make the statements which Mr. Gould says he made?"
"I am positive that Mr. Powderly said nothing of the kind, and Mr. Gould is repeating his old tactics of lying about and misrepresenting us. What Mr. Gould says about our refusal of his proposition to include in the matters to be arbitrated the questions dealing with the damages to the roads caused by the strike is true."

The Joint Executive Committee of Districts 101, 65 and 17 received to-day a contribution of 800 from John Deal, Michael Noonan and Michael O'Brien of Hod Carriers' Union No. 1 of St. Louis.

Grand Master Sargeant of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen was in consultation all morning in room 5 of Hurst's Hotel with the local Grievance Committee of the Firemen, upon the subject of the discharge of the members of the order by the Missouri Pacific Road. The conference broke up at about noon, and a Post-Disparch reporter who inquired after its result obtained the information that a general call had been issued by Grand Master Sargeant for a meeting of the local Grievance Committees of the different lodges of the order upon the Gould System at Parsons, Kan., on the 20th of the current month.

Mr. Sargeant, when approached upon the subject, stated that there had been no attempt at arbitration of the cases of the discharged firemen, and that the railroad officials would not be approached about them until after the decision of the General Committee had been reached. "I do not antichate any difficulty in arriving at a settlement of our grievances," said he. "We will give and receive justice and that is all that any one can expect. Between now and the date of the meeting of the General Committee the local Grievance Committees will investigate thoroughly the differences between the discharged firemen and the company, and will be prepared to report upon them. There are always two sides to every question, and we desire to obtain all of the information bearing upon the situation before taking action. We must move slowly and cautiously in this matter and be sure we are right before submitting our case for arbitration."

"You work under a contract with the company somewhat similar to that of the en-

In the North St. Louis Yards. The switchmen on the North St. Louis di-vision of the W., St. L. & P. are still "out." More than this, they propose to stay out. The "bluff," as they call it, of the company to pay them off and discharge them has not weakened the switchmen. In no instance have they made any attempt to intimidate the men who are working in the positions they made vacant. The road is doing all the business possible with the new force. New men are constantly being put to work, so the management say, and they expect to have thoroughly resumed business in a day or two.

At Union Depot.

There is absolutely nothing to add about the situation at the Union Depot to-day. It is situation at the Union Depot to-day. It is exactly the same as on Saturday. Very few strikers are to be seen about the platform, and everything is as quiet and devoid of excitement as if no strike had ever taken place. No new men have returned to work, nor have any of the few how working quit. Matters are simply at a dead standstill. The Missouri Pacific expect to run out their usual five trains of freight, and there is not apt to be any interference with them.

While one of the men employed in the Missouri Pacific machine shops was going to din-ner at noon to-day he was followed by a crowd who pursued him for some blocks. He finally took refuge in the sanctuary of the German church on the northeast corner of Jefferson and Scott avenues, the sexton, who was there, letting him in. The police at the Four Courts were notified of the trouble and Officers Lyons, Paul and Battersby were sent out to the church, but found it locked and deserted.

Mr. Joe H. Myers of the Missouri Republican office writes to the Post-Dispatch a denial of the published statement of a Mr. Stone, who said he recognized P. C. Thomson, shot on the Thomson, when interviewed at 11 p. m. Friday, at which time she had no knowledge of her husband's death, had stated that he went over to East St. Louis that day for work that had been offered him, and that was the first time he had been over the river. Mr. Myers adds that Mr. Thomson's reputation is that of a quiet and inoffensive man.

On the Missouri Division of the Iron Mountain there are thirty-five trains in transit to-day. There were six trains sent out of here containing 225 loads. But few of the cold hands have returned to work, though Superintendent Fleming has forty-three men at work on the road and in the gravel pits. The coal question is agitating the officials greatly.

At the boarding-house for new railroad hands, a general row occurred. The cook was run off and the cooking stove was pitched out of the window. The city authorities have made four arrests and others are ordered. This raid was exclusively among the new hands imported to Marshall, "scabs" as they are termed. Palestine, Tex., April 12.—A strong effort is being made by the strikers to induce the Farmers' Alliance of this county to make a common cause with them. Up to Saturday evening last the effort had proven a failure. The Knights are storing in their hall all provisions subscribed to their support and are issuing regular rations to the faithful. It is said they represent to the farmers that unless they, the farmers, donate provisions for them to hold out against the strike, the whole country will be ruined.

a Last Effort For Him. The stay of ten days granted by Judge Brewer in the case of Joseph S. Laurie, the disbarred attorney, expired at 1 o'clock to-day. It will be remembered that Mr. Laurie asked for time to present his case in the Supreme Court of the United States. He was sentenced to ninety days in jail for retaining moneys belonging to a client. In order to get an application for for a writ of habeas corpus before the United States Supreme Court, he would have to show, however, that he was in custody, and therefore the stay of ten days was simply a farce. Nothing seems to have been done at Washington. When the United States Court adjourned at 1 o'clock to-day for lunch the marshall asked Judge Brewer if there was an further delay in carrying out the sentence and the Judge shook his head.

Mr. Laurie was at once placed in the hands of a deputy, and would have been removed to jail immediately, but D. C. Dyer and John Overail, Laurie's bondsmen, asked that he be held in the Marshal's office until they could see Judge Brewer and get his consent to an arrangement for Mr. Laurie to report to the Marshal twice a day instead of going behing the bars. Up to a late hour this afternoon they had not caught the ear of the Judge, and it is not likely that the Court would sanction a travesty on its own sentence, plainly expressed, commitment to jail. Why Mr. Cleveland Will Not Marry.
From the Cleveland Leader.
Old friends of Cleveland whisper emphatically that the President will never marry. They say that the only woman that the President ever really loved has been in her grave for more than twenty-five years. He met her, they say, when he was a school teacher in a little town of New York, when the down had just begun to come upon his lip, and she was sweet sixteen. They loved, but were too poor to marry. Cleveland had decided to go West to make a fortune, when his sweetheart became sick and, within a few days, died. James Buchanan's love filted him when he was a young man, and he never courted another. Fillmore had much the same experience of Cleveland, in that he was too poor to marry when he first fell in love. He went off and spent three years at Buffalo without seeing his sweetheart, because he was too poor to pay the traveling expenses of 150 miles which lay between them.

Senor Murnaga's Romance

By Telegraph to the Post-Disparch.

Washington, D. C., April 12.—A good story concerning the new Spanish Minister, Senor Murnaga, is found in a book of reminiscences. Murnaga, is found in a book of reminiscences. Senor Murnaga was attache of the legation here years ago, and fell in love with the only daughter of William W. Corcoran, the banker. Mr. Corcoran, accompanied by his friend, Senator Bright, informed the young man that his attentions were not desirable and high words ensued. Miss Corcoran, fearing that her father might be challenged, sent to the angry diplomat requesting him to meet her at the garden gate. Finding the garden gate locked she invited him into the house and a servant who saw him enter, immediately informed Mr. Corcoran, who was at a dinner party next door. The irate banker, accompanied by several friends, hastened home, and the young lady, hearing her father approach, begged her lover to conceal himself under a large plano, where he was found. A stormy scene ensued and Mr. Corcoran never forgave Mr. Buchanan because he did not insist upon the young lad's immediate recall. The lady evidently cared very little about him, as she soon afterwards married Mr. George Eustis, a "Know Nothing" Representative from Louisiana. Senor Murnaga was attache of the le nan Blount of Georgia, yesterday: "The tariff and Inter-State Committee bills are the only and I think the former stands a good show for being passed by the Forty-ninth Congress, as there are propositions contained in it which commend themselves favorably to the majority. The Appropriations Committee of the House has been backward in reporting some of the bills referred to it, and naturally the Naval Committee has been forced to adopt the same course on account of the agitation regarding the improvement of the navy. Still, I do not see any necessity for the session of Congress to be prolonged beyond the middle of July at the furthest.

THE LONDON NEWS CHANGES ATTITUDE OF THE HOME BULE BILL.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, April 13.—A sensation has been caused by the sudden right about face of the Daily News, the Ministerial organ, and the only London journal which was hitherto supporting Gladstone. This is what the News' editorial says this morning: "The state of Ireland during the past ten years, the brutal murders, houghing of cattle, cowardly boycotting and general state of terrorism in which society has lived, owing to the machinations of secret associations, have aroused a feeling of deep indignation and disgust in the English mind. Beyond this is the conduct of the of deep indignation and disgust in the English mind. Beyond this is the conduct of the Irish members of the House of Commons. A nation that has seen the traditions of its historical Parliament traduced, its authority defied, and the House of Commons turned into a beer-garden in the name of home rule, can scarcely be expected enthusiastically to espouse a cause thus tainted. We are constrained to admit our conviction that the espouse a cause thus tainted. We are con-strained to admit our conviction that the country is not yet ripe for home rule in Ire-land. We regard Gladstone's scheme as one of the most consummate pieces of construct-ive statesmanship presented, even by the

which have delivered Ireland from the incubus of an allen church, but we do not conceal our belief that though the measure may pass its first or second reading, it cannot, unless a remarkable change takes place in pub-lic opinion, become a law at this session." The external interpretation of this charge, onfirmed by several sentences about Friday's ebate, is that the News has gone over to namberlain. What the internal back-stairs history of the change is, I do not yet know, but it is clear that the editor is completely won over. This will likely precipi-tate a second change of editorship of this journal, which I intimated a few weeks this journal, which I intimated a few weeks ago. I learn, however, that even a more serious danger is in Gladstone's way. Michael Davitt will support the land bill with enthusiasm if it is on Giffen's plan, which is tantamount to the nationalization of the land of Ireland. But if the bill, as is more likely, arms at the creation of a large number of peasant proprietorships, I am informed on authority which I am compelled to trust, that tantamount to the nationalization of the land of Ireland. But if the bill, as is more likely, arms at the creation of a large number of peasant proprietorships, I am informed on authority which I am compelled to trust, that Davitt will cross immediately to Ireland and head a popular campaign against the bill. Moreover, my informant adds that Parnell bimself is understood to sympathize with pavitt's views and intentions. I can peravitt's views and intentions. I can per-HIGHLY SIGNIFICANT FACT: On the morning of the introduction of the bill, namely. Thursday, the bill provided for the transference of the Irish Constabulary to the Irish Executive, but during the morning Gladstone received an intimation from the Irish party that they would prefer that this should be left imperial for the present, so as to not increase their difficulties and create the risk of stirring up much bad blood. Imthe risk of stirring up much bad blood. Immediately from the same source, I.learn that after Friday's debate Glastone expressed a desire that public opinion be recalled to the memorandum he furnished to the American memorandum ne rurnished to the American Government, when his language about Jeffer-son Davis "having creating a nation" was put forward during the Alabama claim discussion as evidence of the hostile attitude of England. This memorandum, which explains that Gladstone's personal sympathies were with the Union, throws an entirely different light upon mous remark. It is, perhaps, worth coning that Chamberlain was a strong sionist during the war period. Gladstone secessionist during the war period. Gladstone will probably make a great speech tonight, after Churchill, in reply to his critics. John Bright will not speak, but will vote for the bill. It is rumored that Churchil has written to Salisbury, offering to stand aside if his presence will throw any obstacle in the way of the Hartington-Salisbury coali-

THE BARTLETT-DYSON CASE. LONDON, April 12.—The case against Mrs. Alda Bartlett and the Rev. Mr. Dyson, a Methodist elergyman of Pimileo, for the alleged murder of Edward T. Bartlett, the woman's husband, by chloroform, on December 31 iast, was brought up for trial at the Central Criminal Court to-day. The court-room was crowded. The Crown declined to proceed against Mr. Dyson because convinced of its inability to maintain the in-dictment against him and he was accordingly tive, watched the proceedings intently. The Attorney-General, in presenting the case, arged the jury to refrain from convicting on on, but to weigh the evider carefully and patiently. CHICAGO, April 12.—The Hon. Oliver Mowat, Premier of the Province of Ontario, who is in the city on his way to California for recreation, expresses the satisfaction of the Liberals of Ontario over Giadstone's scheme for Irish home rule. He says home rule has been a great success in Canada and that the Liberals of his Province indones the demand of the Irish for the enjoyment of that privilege in Ireland. home rule once conceded the Irish, he says, can never be taken from them, and every step toward the establishment of this principle in Ireland cannot but be just one more step also.

MR. JAY GOULD is getting to be reckless and headlong in unbosoming himself to mon carriers to reasonable compensation interviewers. He puts language in Mr. PowderLy's mouth in reference to the Knights of Labor which the public will not accept in a hurry.

MR. G. W. CURTIS severely criticises Senator Ingalls' anti-mugwump speech. The speech was very objectionable, but Mr. CURTIS, the Grand Mogul of the mugwumps, is not in a position to criticise it with judicial fairness.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY ought to be promptly admitted into the Union because she applied for admission in a proper way. The Dakota style of trying to tear off shingles and crowd in through the roof rarely facilitates the act of getting in.

THE Democratic party at Washington continues the process of rapid disintegration-in the Republican imagination. In the meantime, the cohesion and unity of the Republicans, as illustrated in recent debates in the Senate, are among the wonders of the times.

THE alleged discourtesy to the Chines Embassy at San Francisco turns out to be a mere campaign lie, in the absence of a campaign. The members of the Embassy were landed without credentials under th instructions of Collector HAGER. The Chinese Minister thanked the custom officials for their courteous attention.

LATER and probably correcter estimate put the net increase of the valuation of lands other than town lots by the State Board of Equalization at $4,479,800. THE bill for the admission of Washington Territory has passed the Senate by a vote of 30 to 13, and now goes to the House. It is not certain that the House will muster enough gallantry to pass the bill without throwing some obstacle in the way of female suffrage, which is allowed under the present constitution of Wash ington Territory.

In answer to quite a number of citizen of St. Louis who have written letters com plaining of the action of the Mayor in letting the Fire Department go to East St. Louis, we may say that there is probably no authority of law for using any of the resources of the city outside of the city, but if the Mayor is to be impeached for his action, the matter must be referred to the Municipal Assembly. In this world we are all more or less dependent on our neighbors, and the duty of helpfulness, in an emergency is one from which not even unicipal corporations are exempt. It s not the exception but the rule for all prosperous cities to send their fire deate to the relief of neighbors in ar nergency, and the rule is not a bad one. Those who wish to contest it must do so over their own names and on their own esponsibility.

A VICTOUS LICENSE.
Some voting which the Senate recorded last Thursday on pending amendments to the Kansas & Arkansas Valley Railway bill makes it clear that the country will have to look to some other body for a check upon stock-watering and other fraudulent processes of capitalization in railroad construction and management. In granting the right of way to the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Company to build a branch 240 miles long, from Kansas down the Arkansas River through the Indian Territory to a connection with the New Orleans roads in the State of Arkansas, Congress makes a contract which will antedate any future law or State Constitution under which the road may be operated, and the privileges and powers thus granted will hold good against any future local law that may be made for the government of the road. Accordingly amendments to the grant were offered by Van WYCK of Nebraska and PLATT of Connecticut imposing on the railroad certain restrictions which sore experience has taught the whole country are necessi ry and wholesome, and without which no State of this Union will ever again grant a charter for a railroad across its domain. VAN WYCK's amendment forbade the issue of any more stock or bonds than would represent the actual cost of building and equipping the road, and PLATT's provided that no share of stock should be transferable until 50 per cent. of its par value had been paid and the amount sworn to by the officers of the company. The adoption of these amendments by Congress would only have subjected that part of the road lying in the Indian Territory to a restriction which is embodied in the Constitution

But although no Senator attempted t show that these restrictions were unneces sary or improper, they were rejected by more than two-thirds of those voting; a majority of the Senators dodging. It was simply said that the restrictions would prevent the building of the road, and, to secure that, one of the greatest stockwatering combinations in the country was authorized by the Senate to fasten the curse of fraudulentand predatory capitalization upon the Indian Territory for all of Arkansas, the State which charters the branch company, but whose laws do not pperate in the Indian Territory.

The plea that such vicious and licentious charters are necessary to enlist capital in railroad construction has paved the way for such a long train of abuses, has produced so much extortion, discontent and mischief in this country, that public opinion almost universally condemns it. It is nonsense to talk about limiting comwhile the law makes them monopolies and permits them to water their stock at will. Some carrier corporations, perhaps most of the street railways in the United States, are permitted now to earn large dividends on a fictitious capitalization many times the actual investment or cost. This is simply robbery under legal license, and the self-governing people of this country, more deeply wronged in this way than the subjects of any military monarchy in Europe, will not stand it much longer. They are applying the remedy in their failure of Congress to apply it in every grant to corporations. The House has a chance to make a popular record on this Senate bill, and if that body follows the Senate the President will have an opportunity to send in a very popular veto.

What the Editors of the New York Journals

Are Saying this Morning.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISFATCH.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The WORLD says: "It-After a year's trial the north of Ireland will be as much in its favor as any other part of the country. No Irishman would thereafter consent to part with it. An insufficient measure would be followed by an universal demand from Ireland for its extension and the reasonableness of the demand would then be conceded by fair-minded Englishmen. Such revolutions do not go backward, and a just measure once in actual operation is certain to overcome prejudice. The most insignificant concession of home rule will, therefore, be of great value to Ireland. It seems to be clearly a wise policy on the part of Mr. Parnell and his followers to accept now the best measure they can secure and to back reland would desire, but such a bill as a friendly English Minister can bring from the British Parliament."

THE TRIBUNE.

The Tribune says: "Cannot workingmen understand that they are taking bread from their own mouths and money out of their own pockets by such behavior as they have indulged in recently? No prejudice should blind them to a fact so important to their own interests. Business men all see it, and yet to them the disturbances means only a little difference in profits. For even in St. Louis where the disturbances have been greatest, the volume of business last month was equally 4 per cent greater than in the same month of 1883, and last week it was only? per cent less than the corresponding week of last year. Thus, more than 07 per cent of the business and riots, burnings and bloodshed, but business men see that widespread uncertainty as to labor means a long depression of industry, the consequences of which will inevitably be felt by all traders and capitalists, though they will fall more heavily upon workingmen than upon anybody else. Why should not workingmen see that they are doing themselves harm?"

THE TIMES.

The Times says: "The legislative policy of Samuel J. Randall has become an important matter for the country, which, by the grace of extreme protectionism, he, so far as the tariff is concerned, now rules. If he should unanimously decide to support tariff reform, the country will get it. If the Democratic side of his complex organization should be only just balanced by the Republican side, there would still be an even chance for the country. If after debate in executive session the majority of him should get against the reform, the chances of getting it would be very slim. The various constituencies ropresented in Mr. Randall have not entirely the same interests. It will be curious to see which will finally prevail. In the meantime, it will also be curious to see how the House, of which Mr. Randall is nominally one member, but in which he controls good many votes, will deal with his autorratic pretensions and his plutocratic motives."

The Sun says: "The capture or effectiv THE TRIBUNE.

The Sun says: "The capture or effective blockade of Boston, New York, Chattanooga Bay and New Orleans would mean the annihilation of our commerce for the time being. The 6,000,000 bushels of grain now unloading in Chicago for this port would remain in store in Chicago, Bismarek would no longer be troubled by the Chelmnati hog, some shrewd Australian sheep-raiser would corner the wool market, king cotton would transfer shrewd Australian sheep-falser would corner the wool market, king cotton would transfer his seat to India, and the fainting manufacturing interests of England would be revived at our expense. Do the wheat-growers of the great Northwest, the cattle-raisers of the plaints, the pork-packers of Cincinnati, the planters of the Mississippi and the shepherds of the Southwest imagine that they are to escape the consequences of a disaster on one of the great seaports. Let them undeceive themselves. Stateamen may endeavor to measure the exteam of the calamity involved in a hostile occupation or close blockade of New York harbor, but the loss cannot be estimated. There ought to be enough patriotism in Congress to see to it that we never ascertain the exact figures by the bitter humiliation of a practical experience."

THE CIVIL COURTS.

JUDGE THAYER ON CONVICTIONS OBTAINED BY TRICK AND ARTIFICE.

Suit—John Knapp Defeated in His Suit Against Mrs. Papin—A Doctor's Bill Thrown Out-Decisions in the Latham, Fitzgibbons and McMurtry Divorce Cases—Matters in Probate To Dec

Judge Thayer To-day rendered a decision overruling a demurrer recalling Life Association troubles in the case of David B. Boogher against Henry W. Hough. The Court thinks that the amended petition states sufficient facts to avoid the conclusive effect of the conviction in the Court of Oriminal Correction. The allegation was that the prosecution was without cause and malicious, and that Mortimer F. Taylor was jointly charged with the crime for the fraud lent and wrongful purpose of depriving Mr.
Boogher of his testimony, Hough and the other defendants well knowing that Mr.
Taylor would be Mr. Boogher's main witness in establishing his innocence.

The court says: "The law certainly will not nal offense and join in the charge his princi pal witness merely for the purpose of pre-venting the accused from having the benefit of venting the accused from having the beneat or his testimony. The wiliful accusation of a party of a criminal offense with no intention of prosecuting him and merely for the sake of depriving some one else of his testimony is a trick or artifice that should deprive a conviction so obtained of its conclusive character as evidence of probable cause, especially when the conviction is invoked by the person guilty of such artifice."

John Knapp and Mrs. Papin. Judge Thaver to-day rendered a decision dis missing the suit of John Knapp against Mrs. Adelaide Papin. This was an action by a surety on a bond against the principal in the surety on a bond against the principal in the bond, a married lady, to charge a debt which the surety has been compelled to pay. The defense was that the bond was not signed by the lady nor by any one having authority to sign it, and, furthermore, that the bond was not signed by the surety at her instance or with her knowledge or consent. Mr. Papin's signature purported to have been affixed to the bond by her husband.

have been affixed to the bond by her husband. It was an injunction bond, approved in open court. Mrs. Papin testified that she never gave any authority to her husband or anybody else to sign the bond, and she did not authorize the bringing of the suit.

The Court holds that the evidence was insufficient to warrant a finding that Mrs. Papin authorized an execution of the bond in her name. Although approved in open court there was nothing to show that Mrs. Papin assented thereto. The Court acted probably on the representation of the husband that he had authority to sign his wife's name.

Medical Services to Relatives

Judge Woerner to-day rendered a decision i the Probate Court on the claim and counter claim presented for allowance in the estate of Alden G. Wilcox, deceased. The claim was Alden G. Wilcox, deceased. The claim was presented by Benjamin H. Wilcox, brother of the deceased, for medical services to the deceased and his wife. The counter-claim was for boarding the claimant and his two children. The court concludes from all the circumstances of the case that the doctor's motive in devoting himself to the comfort and assistance of his brother and sister-in-law, was not the expectation of compensation as a physician, but generous kindness and warm affection for his brother. The impression is irresistable that but for the death of Mr. Wilcox no claim would have been made for the medical services. Its presentation at this time is an afterthought and there must be judgment in favor of the estate.

Judge Horner to-day rendered a decision in the Latham divorce case on a motion of the husband, the plaintiff, the Browns' third baseman, to set aside the order of alimony granted the wife. The higher courts have decided that if a man cannot furnish his wife with the means of defending the suit he is not entitled to a decree, and the fact that he has no visible estate affords no ground for refusing a proper allowance to the wife to enable her to defend the case. Judge Horner sees no reason for increasing costs by demanding that a motion for alimony shall in all cases be supported by witnesses or depositions. Mrs. Latham lives in a distant State and has no means, and her husband, according to the affidavit, has contributed but little to her support since the marriage. husband, the plaintiff, the Browns' third

The Fitzgibbons Divorce. Judge Horner to-day rendered an oral de cision in the bitterly-contested Fitzgibbons divorce case which occupied so many days in hearing. The decree is granted to the hus-band Gerald Fitzgibbons, the plaintiff in the case and he is required to pay alimony as here-tofore and $75 for his wife's counsel fees. Her cross-bill is dismissed.

The McMurtry Divorce

Judge Thayer to-day decided the divorce case of Rachel vs. Archibald G. McMurtry. The decree of divorce is granted plaintiff on her petition with the custody of her infant child. The husband, a letter-carrier, is required to pay the plaintiff, before May 1, $30 additional allowance on account of counsel fees, and $120 per annum for support of the minor child. The husband's cross-bill is dismissed.

Judge Thaver to-day granted a new trial to the damage suit of Dunn against the Cass Avenue Railroad Company. The evidence in this case tended to show that the north this case tended to show that the north-bound- car had passed the other car at least fifty feet or more before the accident happened, whereas the testimony in the case recited by the Court of Appeals, showed that the boy ran out immediately in the rear of the south-bound cars giving the driver of the other car no opportunity to stop.

THE GAMES GO ON.

MANAGER LUCAS AGREES THAT KELLY SHALL BE THE UNPIRE.

in reference to the refusal of Manager thmeis to continue playing the series of local mes with the Browns because of Umpire sity's decision yesterday that Duniap was at for running outside the line, Mr. Von der Kelly's decision yesterday that Duniap was out for running outside the line, Mr. Von der Abe said to-day that he certainly would not play with any other umpire but Kelly. "Mr. Lucas signed a contract with us that Kelly should umpire the scries," said Secretary Harry Weldon, "and we propose to hold him to it. There is no other umpire in this part of the country that can fill the bill. Besides Kelly was chosen and mutually agreed upon for the reason that he was considered one of the best, if not the best, man for the place. If Mr. Lucas refuse to play on that basis all we can do is stop."

Manager Schmelz was also seen by a Post-Disparary reporter. He said: "Oh, I suppose we've got to play the series out, aithough we think that Kelly's decisions have been often erroneous. I did not see the play myself yesterday, but I was given to understand that the decision in the case was wrong."

The majority of the spectators in the grandstand yesterday, however, indorsed the decision in question.

Browns, 5; Maroons, 3.

The seventh game in the local series between the Browns and the Maroons was played yesterday at the Union Park in the presence of nearly 8,000 people. As was anticipated generally, on account of the batteries who worked for the respective clubs, the Browns won and won easily. The batteries were Foutz and Bushong for the Browns and Boyle and Meyers for the Maroons. After the second inning, in which the Browns scored three runs, Mr. Lucas' club was badly rattled, more particularly his tricky captain. Dunlap allowed the ball to roll between his legs a couple of times and dropped it after putting out Robinson at second. In addition to all that, he made another disgusting exhibition of himself yesterday by kicking on a square decision of Mr. Kelly and delaying the game at least a quarter of an hour. Kelly, however, was as strong as iron, and the decision held. If Mr. Lucas wants to run his club on a popular plan and make money this season, he will have to retire Dunlap from the captaincy and puts good man in his place. Of these he has no isok. In the sixth the Browns captured two more runs, while the Maroons scored one in the fourth, sixth and eighth. The total, therefore, was 5 and 3 in the Browns' favor. In Saturday's game the Maroons were again defeated, the Browns registering three while the Maroons made nothing. The conduct of the Maroons in this game was disgusting, they keeping the audience waiting, while by dilatory play of all kinds they endeavored to prevent the playing of five innings, which would give the Browns in the Browns to deavon the Browns, and then the nonsense ceased.

Testerday the Junior Browns and the Prairie Avenue's played a game in which the latter club was defeated by a score of 12 to 4. Hanna and Taulby, were the battery for the Juniors and Riley and Kiely for the Prairies. Hanna did excellent work in the box. The Juniors address is 3844 Page avenue.

The following personal letters from George and Myers, the champion runners, give a few valuable pointers on training for sprinting:

FORDMAN HEIGHTS, N. Y.—I have much pleasure in giving the following particulars as to how I grain, and am training, for my coming races with Mr. L. E. Meyers. My style is, perhaps, different from the system followed by most athletes. It she first place, I argue that, to do anything athleteolity your best way, you must be in your best beautish. Then, way, you must be in your best beautish. Then, way, you must be in your best beautish. Then, way, you must be in your best beautish. Then, way, you must be in your best way, and as near the same hour as possible. The distance varies, namely, from 300 yards up to cast mile; and I never fully extend myself, except with fand train should be very sparingly deals. A training run should invigorate, and make one wall and strong. I am quits sure that when one wall and strong. I am quits sure that when one wall and strong. I am quits sure that when one has been anyther than the should be very sparingly deals the fact hauring to tired arter it, there is someinversy—be it doing too much work, or is physical. luable pointers on training for sprinting:

ent, find out at once what is the matter, and remedy, or you cannot be at your best.

From the above remarks you will learn that my bester is in good health, and that in any sort of training for physical and mascular exertions one should sindy and train his health first, and that any sort of training for physical and mascular exertions one should sindy and train his health first, and that develop all. It is not one of any present, what is "one man's food is another's polion." It seems to me that one could write no end on training, yet three words can convey it is every meaning, vist. "man, know thyself," and this is my advice to all those who contemplate training for anything, and is what it try to practice always.

I am glad to be able to state that, at the present time, I'm well, and I fully believe, if I keep as I am at present till after my races with M. Tawe eres before done to the shall run theter than W. G. GEORGE.

NEW YOUN CITY.—In regard to the various reports that have appeared in newspapers about my manner of training, I would say that some are correct and some are two lishly incorrect, as for instance the article which appeared in a daily loarnal vesterday morning, which said I had not taken a bath for a month or even washed my see and hands for that length of time. Possibly the article I refer to was meant to even washed my see and hands for that length of time. To those of my friends work, I can only say that, if they no desire, they can see me "move," were day, rain or shine, at the Manhattan Grounds, to between the hours of I p. m., and 2 p. m.

My daily exercise consists of a run of from one-half a mile to a mile and a half, after which I indulge in a short, sharp spins. Before exercising on the track, I generally walk from one and a half to two differences, in the short of the afternoon, between the sound and the first of the first of the steries of the wasternoon. I have a specific the state to easily me to releve hours.

Only two English attractions out of the usual five opened last night and the choice of amuse-ment was limited. Both of these attractions were melodramas and both drew large houses At the People's Belot's Parisian life drama "The Pavements of Paris," adapted by Henry Belmer, was presented. The house was filled and the sensational incidents of the play were loudly applianced, but the performance was extremely weak in many respects. The stage business was so had as to make some of the scenes supposed to be strongest ridiculous, and some members of the cast were executable in their parts. Mr. Henry Belmer himself did not present any marked excellencies as yieux Grosjean, Mr. Herbert Stuart was a guy as Baron de Guerin; J. S. Conners was bad as Lleut. Maurice Peronne. It is needless to particularize the bad members of the company. J. W. Palmoni made a creditable Fusch. Mr. G. A. Henderson had a capital make-up and acted the part of Vicomit de Flashon with cleverness. Misses Eugenis Florence and Marie Plunkett as Marie and the Baroness, respectively, were fairly clever. The scenery and special features were attractive.

The "Streets of New York" drew a packed house to the Standard and went to enthusiasm from the upper tiers. There was some bad acting in this performance also, but for the most part the cast was satisfactory. George Boniface made a capital Badger gaining the sympathy of the house at the beginning and keeping it throughout. Alf M. Hampton was clever as Dan and Harry Simon made a bit as Bob the bootblack. Misses Almira Strong, and Henrietta Floyd as Alida Bloodgood and Lincy Fairweather were pretty and attractive. Miss Jennie Robinson was effective as Mrs. Fairweather, but in the rest of the cast there was no one worth mentioning.

"OUR BACHELORS."

Their Second Anniversary Pleasantly Celebrated at the Germania. Our Bachelors of the Germania Club celebrated the second anniversary of their organization by a delightful entertainment and repast on Saturday evening last at the clubrooms. The rooms were beautifully decorated and the programme was entirely worthy the occasion. Our Bachelors differs from other organizations of the kind in being composed of only one untitled member and an array of officers, the latter of whom are bossed and directed by their subordinate, who is distinguished as "The Member." At the saniversary, this solitary but important, who is distinguished as "The Member." After the repast there was a mixed programme, which began with shadowgraph lilustrations of Schiller's "Gang Zum Eisonhammer" given simultaneously with the reading of the poem. Chemical experiments by Doctors Frerichs and Kortunan followed in which brillianteffects were obtained by burning sulphur, phosphorus, platinum and iron in oxygen. Mr. Kunkel played "Home, Sweet Home," and for the emoore gave the "Dubbing Spring." Mr. Glo, accompanied by Mr. Swellowtall, "in a laughter-provoking way, and Mrs. Renken-Thiel sang a soprano solo, "Ist Es ein Gruss von Dir," Mr. Kunkel accompaning on the piano. Mr. Nicole Statis closed the entertainment with his Vienna couplets, which kept the gathering in a rear. The entertainment was followed by dancing, Our Bachelors Bigothone Band furnishing musle until nearly daylight.

In the swening he went on watch with the night guards and during his three years service in the jail never failed to report on time for duty a single night. He would make a circuit of the galleries to see that the priseners were all in their cells and would then come down into the yards ascend the winding staircase leading up to the lookout in the center of the jail and survey the situation from that point. This done he would remain with the guards until he thought it time to

HARD TO ESTABLISH.

THE CLAIM OF INDIANA PEOPLE TO WEST END PROPERTY.

he Story of the Ownership of the Prairie des Nayers Tract-Doubts as to the Existence of the Patent-A Curious Story, with Some Ex-tracts from Musty Manuscripts,

A special dispatch from Indianapolis tells of a effort to establish the claim of Miss Eliza an effort to establish the claim of Miss Eliza Abbots of that city, her elster of Winchester, Ind., Judge Armstrong and his brother of Kentneky to some acres of land in the Prairie des Noyers, common fields of this city. The dispatch says the property in question is worth several millions of dollars, and has on it many "palatial residences." The owners holding under later patents of title than those granted by the Spanish Government, would be glad to know that the valuation stated is correct, and that the "palatial residences" existed, but the last property sold in that vicinity would go to show that the entire possible tract could be had for less than half a million. An agent of the heirs was here a short rent of the heirs was here a short me ago and looked up the chain of title. He time ago and looked up the chain of title. He located the property claimed under the grant as between holdes and Shaw avenues, west of Grand avenue to Tower Grove avenue. This strip is held in the main by Henry Shaw. The eastern end of the tract, lying between Grand avenue and Calying was subdivided several years as to by Mr. Shaw, and sold to private persons. The Epistoral private houses. West of Grand avenue opening on Detonty street is Shaw place, where there are a number of handsome houses, none, however, in the least palatial. Farther west there are no houses, and the portion that has not been subdivided, owned exclusively by Shaw and comprising eighty five acres, is not built upon at all, but is still producing corn as in the days when St. Louis did not inclose it, but lay miles to the east.

THE STORY OF THE CLAIMANYS under the Spanish grant is as follows:

Just before Spain made a final ocession of the strip of the marriage of Miss Annie Lewis, are among those who will go abroad this summer.

Mrs. Geo. D. Barnard with her pretty sister, Miss Tyndall, are spending this tweek in San Francisco.

Cards are out for the marriage of Miss Annie Lempt of Mrs. George, nee Annie Jacobs, of Kansas

The STORY OF THE CLAIMANTS
under the Spanish grant is as follows:
Just before Spain made a final cession of her American possessions to France, Capt.
William Armstrong received from the Spanish Government a grant of several scress of land near the then little hamlet of St. Louis, lying in the Prairie des Noyers (common fields), and in ISH Congress confirmed the grant to him and his heirs. Capt. Armstrong died intestate several years later, his personal effects were administered upon by the court and his papers passed into the hands of a brother. No action was taken regarding the land, if, indeed, it was known to the court that he owned it. While looking through some of his father's papers Judge Armstrong of Kentucky, a cousin of Miss Abbott and a grand nephew of Capt. Armstrong, found a parchment copy of the grant and instituted an inquiry into the matter. From records in the department at Washington it was found that the identity of the grant had been lost in subsequent surveys and an application for a resurvey was filed.

SPANISH GRANTS

In 1811 the great earthquake occurred which resuited in the sinking of many acres of valuable lands at New Madrid, and an act was passed by Congress in 1815 granting to those settlers who had suffered losses of lands at New Madrid other lands subject to entry. Many of these settlers entered lands in what is now in 8t. Louis. They were called New Madrid locations. The Stoddard location was one; it extended from Seventeenth street west to Grand avenue, 16 acres so wide. It came in conflict with a Spanish grant, and litigation resulted in the establishment of the latter as superior on account of its priority. Another strip claimed under a location lay between Park and Chouteau avenues, Grand and Compton avenues, quite near that now claimed by the Armstrong heirs. This was also in conflict and a Spanish grantee retained his possession. The sites of Hannibal and Louisiana are New Madrid locations.

MR. EVANS CASSELBERRY, who has spent a lifetime fingering the plats of land in the old Louisiana territory, and the best posted lawyers on the subject, doubts the existence of the Armstrong patent. His plats, which show every grant made in the Frairie des Noyers, do not show a grant to an Armstrong or any other person bearing a Celtic or Saxon name. Every grantee in that portion of the city, as indeed every beneficiary under the Spanish rule of the territory, was either French, Spanish or Creole. Nor is there on his record of New Madrid locations any name like Armstrong. There is one New Madrid location show a grant to an Armstrong the property. It is the only location sufficiently closs to the fields to be noted. There was no special act of Congress pressed in 1821, nor within five years of that time, condrming the title of Wm. Armstrong or any other person be noted. There was no special act of Congress pressed in 1821, nor within five years of that time, condrming the title of Wm. Armstrong or any other Armstrong to any property in the fields, or anywhere in the country. Had the confirmation been included under the gene

They assert now that no such sales of children have been or more made in this city as were discovered in London, but they have unearthed a remarkable amount of youther ful depravity. As a result of their efforts the bogus peddling girls, whose pretense of an occupation is a cloak to viler employment, have been cleared from the streets. In every instance where they have found young girls debauched for a price the girls have themselves claimed to be over the legal age of "consent." In some localities children are brought up in such poverty that they willingly embrace any opportunity to secure money, independent of their parents wishes and without the solicitation of agents. WASHINGTON.

SENATOR INGALLS' EFFORTS TO STRENGTH-EN THE PRESIDENTIAL BACKBONE.

epublican journals have thought of late that ney detected on the part of the President an they detected on the part of the President an inclination to depart from his civil service reform principles. The Republican Senators do not believe so. They had an idea, while the recent controversy was in progress, that the President was yielding. There seemed to be an inclination on his part to consult his Democratic friends about appointments and to give up a portion of that independency which has characterized him heretofore in selecting federal officials. The speech of Senator Ingalis was made with a view to stiffenting the President's backbone. There was nothing in it that had any reference to the resolutions under discussion. It was simply a re-exposition of the President's civil-service reform declarations, made with a view to preventing any relaxation in the firmness which has characterized his actions heretofore.

Pacific Railroad Committee, may have been well intended, but it is as directly in the interests of the railroads as if it had been prepared by Mr. Sherili, the head of their lobby in Washington. The proposition that the accounts of the roads shall be investigated by a commission to be appointed by the Secretary of the Interior, whose works had been under his direction, will not result in any change in the situation. Mr. Lamar has already a bureau fully authorized to examine the acts of those roads. The proposition of Saturday will not confer any new authority upon the Secretary of the Interior. He is already overburdened with work and has no time to supervise and direct an investigation, which, if successful, must be conducted by experts. Commissions of any kind are much more easily controlled by the railroads than Congressional committees, because greater public attention is concentrated upon the work of the latter. There is no one at present connected with the Interior Department who has any expert knowledge of the accounts except Mr. Walker who is at present cumployed in the bureau of railroad accounts. The only expert who has been employed in the bureau since it was organized was Maj. Reddington. He was developing facts going to show the true character of the extraordinary claims of these roads for an extension of time for the payment of their indebtedness, when he was summarily dismissed without a word of explanation. It was afterward said by Mr. Lamar, in an interview published in the World, that Maj. Reddington has positively denied, and challenges proof. He says further that he defies anyone to show a single account of the bureau since he has been there that could have affected the price of Pacific Railroad stocks. This Maj. Reddington has positively denied, and challenges proof. He says further that he defies anyone to show a single account of the bureau since the has been there that could have affected the price of Pacific Railroad stocks. "It has been said that the President has requested or is going to request your resignation; have you heard anything of it?"

"No; on the contrary, I have every reason to believe that the President has a very high opinion of me. I am told that he thinks I am one of the best officers under the Administration. I don't know that he everexpressed any such opinion, but I was so informed. I have not seen him to confer with him for over five months. I have so much work to do, you know. I saw him at one of his receptions, but in that crowd I could do no more than squeeze his hand, you know. "To out hink of resigning, as has been stated?"

Oh, no; but if there was any intimation that my place is wanted, I would meet it more than half way. It is not likely that I should cling to a place where I work stateen hours a day for just enough to pay my board, when I have a very fair fortune to live upon. But I am not going to say whether I will remain in the office for four years or fifty. Probably the Democratic party may not remain in power that long."

The Edmunds Resolutions.

By Telegraph to the Post-Disparcii.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 12.—There has been a general misunderstanding of the atti-tude of the different members of the Judiciary Committee toward the Edmunds resolutions, before they reported to the Senate. It has been stated that Senator Evarts and Senator been stated that Senator Evarts and Senator Howe were the two members of the committee who objected to the original form of the resolution and compelled its modification before they would sign the committee's report. As a fact, Senator Evarts was the most carnest supporter of Senator Edmunds in the committee. From the beginning of the discussion of the resolutions he insisted upon the right of the Senate to all the papers on file and the justice of rejecting in every case, unless they were sent on the request of the committees. The member of the committee who modified the Edmunds resolution was Senator Ingalls. He proposed the addition to the third resolution of the limitation contained in the words: "When deemed necessary by the Senate and called for in considering the matter." He and Senator Hoar refused to sign the report unless the clause was added to the resolution, and although Senator Edmunds was loath to do so, he was finally obliged to accede to their demand.

The Special Delivery.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 12.—Six months has elapsed since the inauguration of the special delivery service by the Post-office Department, and up to date but three cities, Washington, Pittsburg and New York, seem to have made the new system successful. It has been suggested that the public should not be restricted to any specified stamp, but should be allowed to send a letter requiring prompt delivery by prepaying it with B cents' worth of any kind of United States postage stamps. Should such a proposition be adopted, it would be necessary for the sender to write the words "Special Delivery" on the envelope under the stamps. By this means attention would be directed to the necessity for early delivery, and its transmission would be assured the same as if one of the new delivery stamps was used.

THE GRAND MASTER WORKMAN.

Mr. Powderly Spends Sunday at His Desk A Settlement Probable.

SCRANTON, Pa., April 12.—General Master Workman Powderly spent most of his time yesterday at his desk. When a friend suggested that he might break down again from overwork, he said: "I cannot help it. The knowledge that there are 500 or 600 letters here to answer worries me just as much as it does to go through them. I haven't taken a single day's vacation for seven years, and," he added,"there is little prospect of my getting a day off in the next seven years. Every man who writes to me thinks he is the only one. I do not believe it would make much difference if I had a force of ten or more clerks, my mail would probably increase in proportion."

difference if I had a force of ten or more clerks, my mall would probably increase in proportion."

"Is it true, Mr. Powderly," the Post-Dis-Parch correspondent asked, "that you are contempiating a trip to Washington for a conference with Fresident Cleveland?"

"No, it is not," he said, decidedly. "I do not see how such a report could, have been started. President Cleveland has no more authority to settle this matter than any one cless. All he can do is to see that the supremacy of the law is maintained, as President of the United States. There is no occasion for my having a conference with Mr. Cleveland. I certailly have no intention of going to Washington. Such silly rumors as these do a great deal of harm. They retard the progress of any settlement that might be under way."

Mr. Powderly did not wish to say whether the Executive Board of the Knights of Labor were taking any new steps towards securing a peaceable settlement of the strikes in the Southwest, as a premitaire publication might interfere with what they were trying to accomplish. It was well known that he was desirous of having the troubles settled amicably and would yet do all in his power to bring about that result. It can be stated, on good authority, however, that there will be another conference with Mr. Gould in a day or two looking to the arbitration of the differences between the railroad officials and the Knights of Labor. It is believed that Mr. Gould may be persuaded to take the responsibility of settling the strike out of Mr. Hoxie's hands and arbitrating it himself. It would not mean a rebuke to Mr. Hoxie, Mr. Powderly take the position; that Mr. Hoxie has his hands full with the management of his business, and therefore should not be bothered with the settlement of the strike which has assumed national importance. Mr. Powderly has not abandoned hope of securing a peaceful settlement of the trouble in the Southwest.

A SILLY STORY.

The Beported Engagement of Miss Folsom to President Cleveland.

The President was Miss Folsom's father's best friend, but his marriage to her, though talked of frequently by society gossips here, has not been seriously looked for, nor is it now. Miss Folsom is but 22 years old. Her brother Ben, who is with her in Europe, is a lawyer of ability. No particulars of the engagement, if one exists, can be learned here and it is regarded as an exceedingly improbable story.

The Grand-jury meets again to-day after a rest of about a month. They have a lot of routine work before them and will clear it all up so that the May Grand-jury will not have to be called before June. This is done to give the entire Circuit Attorney's office full sway at the Maxwell case which comes up for trial next month. Among the cases that will come before the present Grand-jury are those of the strikers against whom warrants were sworn out, and that of Louis Haller, the employe of the Missouri Pacific Machine, shops who, while pursued by a crowd from the shops, shot and killed an innocent party who was coming in an opposite direction. As there has been considerable talk about the active part taken by Assistant Circuit Attorney MacDonald in looking after the interests of the railroad companies in these cases, he has decided not to act as legal adviser of the Grand-jury during their present sitting, but to leave the jury in charge of Circuit Attorney Clover.

t Boot and His Advent in Valley City, Dak.-Religious, Business and Political Fights-The Suicide of Miss Clara Root.

VALLEY CITY, Dak., April 13.—Until Herbert Root appeared in this place, six years ago, Valley City was as quiet and circumspect a lit-tle hamlet as the Territory had. Since his adtle hamlet as the Territory had. Since his advent there has been war continually until now, when open hostilities are temporary suspended over the new-made grave of Roots' sister, Miss Clara A. Root, whose recent death at her own hands has profoundly agitated this region. Root was formerly a minister of the Episcopal Church. But getting the money-making fever he abandoned a pulpit in Minnesota and went into the banking business here with Mr. Kindred. The row began right away. Root, who is aggressive and business here with Mr. Kindred. The row be-gan right away. Root, who is aggressive and exasperating, quarreled with Kindred and the two dissolved partnership. Then Root started a bank of his own and mixed in politics, making several new enemies by the process. He was soon afterward arrested for embezzling $30,000, but was discharged on the occasion of the Congressional election in Minnesota two versage. He was an active partials of one years ago. He was an active partisan of one of the Republican candidates and the night after the result was announced his bank was plastered with eggs. volver two or three times in the air ne was arrested and after a protracted trial fined for the offense. Then as a prime mover in the organization of an Episcopal parish he became involved in A DOZEN OR MORE QUARRELS, some of them invoking charges against his honesty, and resulting in suits and countersuits for libel and slander. Finally, the pastor of the church excommunicated Root, but the latter appealed to the Bishop, and that dignitary reversed the finding, declaring that the rector and his vestry had no right to the church. Root followed up this advartage by leading a party of his adherents in an effort to capture the edifice, and two or three pistol fights over the possession of that structure resulted, the rector himself, armed to the teeth, figuring in one of them. By this time the whole town was either Root or anti-Root in business, politics, society and religion. The local papers took a hand in the matter, and every question that came up, from the location of a town pump to the election of delegates to a Territorial Convention, was decided on the Root or anti-Root issue. One of the papers denounced Root as a perjurer and they and he sued it for $117,000 damages. The trial lasted many weeks and resulted in a verdict for 6 cents. Root's friends were highly elated. They brought out the cannon and ired it all night. They built bonfires and had a war dance, and they rang the bell and had a spree which continued far into the next day. When they cooled down they had Root arrested for perjury. This charge was dismissed in the course of time. At the next county election Root had a lawyer named Remington arrested for bribery, and Remington swore out a warrant against Root charging him with stealing wheat. The war waxed more and more furious until at length every society and almost every family in town was actually enlisted under The Root of RANTI-ROOT BANNER. His sister, Miss Clara A. Root, a school-teacher, became involved in trouble in one way or another, and was frequently made the subject of heartiess abus

In a long letter to the School Board she wrote:

Now, Thave done wrong. Why it was, or how it was, I will not tell. I am not guilty alone, and I will leave the other one to say what he will. I will only say that I repented this sin when it was only a suggestion, and have ever since tried to atone for it. Flease do not be cross to my brother. Valley City people have been so unjust to him that it has changed his nature, and, then, his wife is never satisfied. It is more

The Reported Engagement of Miss Folsom to Fresident Cleveland.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispator.

Burralo, N. Y., April 13.—The rumor that Miss Frankie Folsom has announced her engagement to President Cleveland appears to have been evolved by some New York correspondents who were short of topics. One of them says a well-known society lady of Troy received a letter from Miss Folsom, who is now in Italy, announcing the engagement. Another states that the Troy lady had it at second-hand from a Buffalo friend of Miss Folsom.

The President was Miss Folsom's father's best friend, but his marriage to her, though talked of frequently by society gossips here, has not been seriously looked for, nor is it now. Miss Folsom is but 22 years old. Her brother Ben, who is with her in Europe, is a lawyer of ability. No particulars of the engagement, if one exists, can be learned here.

THE MAXWELL CASE.

The Grand-Jury Preparing to Give It a Full Swing.

The Grand-jury meets again to-day after a rest of about a month. They have a lot of routine work before them and will clear it all up so that the May Grand-jury will not have to be called before June. This is done to give the entire Circuit Attorney's office full sway at the Maxwell case which comes up for trial next month. Among the cases that there is wore sworn out, and that of Louis Haller, the employe of the Missouri Facific Machine, shops who, while pursued by a crowd from the shops, shot and killed an Isnocent party who was coming in an opposite direction. As there has been considerable talk about the active part taken by Assistant Circuit Attorney MacDonald in looking after the intercests of the railroad companies in these cases, he has decided not to act as legal adviser of the Grand-jury during their present sitting, but to leave the jury in charge of Circuit Attorney Clover.
